How much power can be generated by solar-energy-harvesting sub-module?

Besides, theoretical and simulation results show that the annual power generation of the solar-energy-harvesting sub-module, wind collection sub-module and entire WPPGS system installed on all highways in China mainland can be up to 155 GWh, 201 GWh and 356 GWh, respectively.

What is the potential for solar energy harvesting?

The results showed that the measured annual energy yield could be up to 78 kWh/m². Although the potential for solar energy harvesting is huge, it is severely affected by weather changes, seasonal replacement and day-night alternation.
